

JEROME AFTER BIG GANG OF JURY-FIXERS.

Raid on "Jake" Wolf's Saloon Said to Be First Move of District-Attorney.

"WRONG MAN," SAYS WOLF.

Declares He Has No Connection with the Mysterious "Ike" Solomon, Associated with Minnie Kurtz.

A blow at a gang of jury-fixers, it was announced to-day, was aimed at District-Attorney Jerome when he caused the raid yesterday on "Jake" Wolf's Delancey street saloon.

Wolf, it was charged by Acting Capt. Churchill during his recent trial before Commissioner Partridge, is known in the district as a close friend of Police Inspector Cross, now under Mayor Low's fire.

At the District-Attorney's office it is asserted that a band of jury-fixers had made its headquarters in Delancey street for the last year.

Wolf's saloon is at No. 11, and it was here that Minnie Kurtz telephoned for the mysterious "Ike," when she was being taken by County Detective Mahr from her disorderly place in Stuyvesant place to the District-Attorney's office.

She Asked for "Ike." On June 17 Minnie Kurtz, acting under instructions from Mahr, called up Wolf's saloon. Where is Ike, she said, and the person who answered the telephone is declared to be Wolf.

He replied: "Ike is over at the trial of Capt. Herlihy on important business."

This was taken as conclusive proof that the two men were acting in concert, and ever since that time the District-Attorney has been seeking to round up the pair.

When placed under arrest yesterday Wolf took County Detective Mahr aside and asked: "Did the District-Attorney find out anything?"

"Why, the District-Attorney says that he has got enough to hang you," was the quiet response of the officer.

"Put me wise," begged Wolf.

The two bartenders of Wolf, William Wolf, a cousin, and Theodore Bose, both were arrested, the day previous in Mahr's saloon. Both were furnished with $5000 bonds, which were released yesterday afternoon.

All Wrong, Says Wolf.

Jacob Wolf, a small person with black mustache, was found at his place of business, No. 11 Delancey street, to day by an Evening World reporter. He was visibly alarmed over the attack made upon him yesterday by District-Attorney Jerome.

"It is all up with me now I guess," he said. "They are bound to run me out of business, and it is all a mistake."

"How is it a mistake?" was asked.

"Jerome has mixed me up with Ike Solomon, who worked for Harry Fagan, a diamond broker, with an office in my saloon. He thinks that Ike is my brother. That is wrong. He's no relative of mine and we have no business connections."

"Why is the District-Attorney after Ike?"

"All on account of Minnie Kurtz, once keeper of a disorderly house, whom doing three months on the island. She was an important witness in the trial of Capt. Herlihy. They say she was spirited away. I had nothing to do with that but Jerome will not even let me explain."

A placard in the window of Wolf's place reads:

OFFICE OF HARRY FAGAN,
DIAMOND BROKER.
PAWN TICKETS BOUGHT AND SOLD.

WOLF KNOWN AS FRIEND OF INSPECTOR CROSS.

No. 11 Delancey street is a five-story, red brick building, now known as occupying the ground floor. Liquors are dispensed at cut-rate prices. Across the centre of the saloon runs a pole. This is used on Sundays to support a mammoth curtain, which during the week lies in repose behind the bar.

At the trial of Capt. Churchill, charged with neglect of duty while commander of the Fifth street station, Policeman William Reich, a plainclothes man under that officer, testified that Mrs. Jennie Binger, keeper of a disorderly house in the district, had told him that she had paid $100 to Wolf because a man from Headquarters had told her to do so.

At the same trial Capt. Churchill rose in his chair and shaking his fist at Inspector Cross, said: "Jake Wolf went around saying that everything would open up and that Cross would take care of the precinct. It was the talk of the side and I told Cross that I could not keep the disorderly houses closed up with that sort of talk going the rounds."

I also informed Inspector Cross that I had heard he had been dining with Wolf at Luchow's."

The young woman was formerly a stenographer at Police Headquarters, where she also held the office of private secretary to Chief of Police Hopper.

Recently Miss Bester disagreed with the members of her family and left home. She has been despondent for some days.

Then Commissioner Partridge lined up the new roundmen and advised them to work hard and faithfully, and not to try to get easy berths through their friends. The new roundmen are:

TAMMANY PAVES WAY FOR MURPHY

District Chiefs Arrange Programme for His Formal Choice as Leader.

TO REVIVE OLD COMMITTEE.

Place Held by Croker and Abolished When the Triumph Came In Is to Be Re-established.

More than half the district leaders were at Tammany Hall to-day on invitation of Charles F. Murphy to arrange a programme for the meeting to-morrow of the Executive Committee.

Among those at the conference were Senator Sullivan, Senator Plunkitt, Senator Featherston, George Scannell, ex-Judge Van Hoesen, John McQuade, ex-City Chamberlain Keenan and City Clerk Scully.

Senator Sullivan said he was in favor of electing Murphy without any subterfuge. Heretofore leadership was gained through election as Chairman of the Finance Committee.

John Kelly, Richard Croker and Lewis Nixon held that place. It was abolished when Nixon resigned and the Triumph came in. Many district leaders want to revise it and elect Murphy.

Sullivan declared himself in favor of making Murphy leader directly and not through the chairmanship of the Finance Committee.

To Admit Devery.

Sullivan said Tammany would recognize Devery's power and admit him without question. Talk of fraud, he asserted, was all bosh. He was elected by residents of the brownstone houses of the district and not by floaters from Tenth avenue.

Hopper Favors Revival.

Isaac Hopper, of the Thirty-first Assembly District, declared in favor of reviving the old Finance Committee and electing Murphy Chairman. In this he differed with Sullivan as to the method of making Murphy the leader.

Ex-Judge Van Hoesen advocated Murphy's election to the Chairmanship of the Finance Committee. He said Tammany should have a recognized leader, chosen by a practically unanimous vote. He thought Murphy would have that vote.

The general opinion seemed to be that the Finance Committee would be revived and enlarged from three to five members. Murphy would be given the Chairmanship and thus recognized as leader. Hopper and "Battery Dan" Finn, who defeated Col. Murphy, will be the new members.

Want Chandler for Congress.

A delegation representing labor organizations presented a petition asking that Tammany nominate Walter M. Chandler, of the late Amos J. Cummings in Congress.

It was signed by fifty labor leaders, representing the "Big Six" Typographical Union, and the Letter-Carriers Association being among them.

The executive committee of the Republican County Committee held a meeting this afternoon. The County Committee will meet to-night.

John B. Stanchfield, of Elmira, Democratic nominee for Governor two years ago, at the Hoffman House to-day said he was not a candidate for any office now. He said ex-Comptroller Coler was well liked up the State.

Constitution would follow the lead of Massachusetts in throwing over the Kanby Stanchfield, with Norman E. Mack, of Buffalo, member of the National Committee and friend of William J. Bryan.

In Tammany Hall there seems great rejoicing over the defeat of ex-Senator Murphy at the Democratic primaries of Troy. This is looked upon as showing that with Croker out Tammany is once more friendly to ex-Senator David B. Hill.

"H. G." DROWNED.

Union Market police report that the body of an unidentified man was found in the East River at the foot of Stanton street. On the left arm the initials "H. G." were tattooed.

STRENGTH AND FOOD.

The First Comes from the Last.

When proper food is used in sickness the recovery is much more rapid and sure, and a food that is good and easy of digestion is right for any one.

Mrs. H. L. Gordon, of Corry, Pa., was taken down with nervous prostration and heart trouble about a year ago, and for weeks it seemed that she could not live.

She says: "The medicine I took for my nerves and heart injured my stomach and I grew steadily worse until I could retain nothing. For weeks I was kept alive on one teaspoonful of beef tea and one of lime water every hour, and after a while I could not even continue that. I grew weaker and weaker and finally was compelled to use sweet oil to feed the bowels, until one day my daughter suggested that I try Grape-Nuts dry, as I could not retain anything moistened. After the third day I began to steadily mend and for weeks and months I ate them three times a day."

"When I began eating Grape-Nuts I weighed 75 lbs.; now I weigh 110 and am doing my housework and eating nearly any and every thing. I tell every one I hear complain of poor stomach to try Grape-Nuts and many have on the strength of my cure."

MODEST HERO SAVED FOUR

Caught Mother and Daughters as They Leaped, Then Hurried Away.

REFUSED TO TELL NAME.

Risked His Life on Roof Ledge but Did Not Forget that He Was Late for Work—Other Rescues at Tenement Blaze.

A hero who would not tell his name hurried away from a Brooklyn fire early to-day just after he had saved the lives of a woman and her three daughters in a spectacular manner.

Mrs. Mary Ryan, living on the top floor of the three-story building at Court and Huntington streets, Brooklyn, was awakened by smoke in the room. Arousing her three daughters, Mary, eighteen years old; Cella, fourteen, and Martha, ten, she found that Mandel Shannon's store on the ground floor was on fire. The flames were shooting to the top of the building.

Mrs. Ryan and her daughters, unable to get down through the smoke and flame-filled stairway, ran to the front windows and called for help. A man on the street turned in an alarm of fire, but could not reach the imperiled ones. While he was devising means to save them the hero ran up, and entering the building next door, a one-story structure, climbed to the roof. From there a narrow ledge ran out under the windows in which Mrs. Ryan and her daughters were standing.

He shouted to them to stay where they were, that the hook-and-ladder truck was coming and they would be taken down in time.

Caught as They Leaped.

The rumble of approaching engines could be heard, but the flames were creeping closer, and in her excitement Mrs. Ryan could wait no longer, and she leaped.

Had she fallen to the sidewalk she would probably have been killed or seriously injured.

The man on the ledge reached out and caught her and in holding her was himself almost carried from the ledge. But he held to the window casing and then carried and half threw the hysterical woman to the roof of the building he had just left.

The mother's action was an example for the others and the daughter Mary leaped. The man caught her also, and he had no sooner disposed of one on the roof than another jumped into his arms.

"What all?" called a man who had run to the roof and was caring for the woman and children as they were passed to him.

"Here's the last," answered the rescuer, as he caught the fourth of the family and hurried to the street.

Hurried to Work.

A policeman stopped him and asked him his name.

"Never mind that," was the answer. "I want to get the police records," persisted the policeman.

"I don't care. I'm late for work now and the boss is docked me."

Then he hurried away through the crowd to his work, refusing to discuss his brave act in any way.

The firemen found the family of Anton Toomey, on the third floor, rear, in great excitement. Mrs. Toomey had been overcome by smoke and had fallen on the floor near a window. Her two children were in a window when a ladder was raised and they were taken down.

Mrs. Toomey was carried to the street by Firemen Barrett and Neale, of Engine Company No. 103, and was revived by an ambulance surgeon from the Brooklyn Hospital.

The fire did $1,000 damage to the stock in Shannon's store and $3,000 to the building.
